

FIRSTCLASS[®] Solution Sheet

Non-Profit

FirstClass provides a cost-effective and secure communications and collaboration solution for non-profit organizations such as:

- Political Parties
- Charitable Foundations
- Unions
- Religious Groups
- Social Organizations

Creating a thriving online community that fosters effective communication and collaboration can be a significant challenge for non-profit organizations for several reasons: they typically lack the financial resources needed to purchase expensive, corporate business solutions and the IT staff essential to support them; their memberships can extend to hundreds of thousands of people, making scalability of a deployed system critical; and they require a system that can offer easy access to distributed users without sacrificing security.

CUSTOMER PROFILE:

The CISL (Italian Confederation of Workers' Trade Unions) is the second largest trade union in Italy, with over 4.2 million members from a variety of industries. Independent of any economic power, employer, government, or political party, the CISL's core focus is to protect and promote the best interests of their member workers.

CISL was looking for a secure and cost-effective communications and collaboration solution that would enable its union members to work together electronically to formulate policies, disseminate information in a timely manner, collect and address issues, and communicate more effectively at the sector, regional and national level.

Beyond basic email and calendaring features, CISL uses FirstClass conferencing to enable members to collaborate on a wide range of topics, share ideas, and keep people informed — regardless of their location.

"Our FirstClass system has been very easy and cost-effective for us to deploy. We have almost 10,000 members now using FirstClass and, despite the size of the system, it is being successfully managed by just one part-time employee."

CUSTOMER PROFILE:

Kristdemokraterna

Kristdemokraterna, the Christian Democratic Party in Sweden, has more than 24,000 members. In 1994, Kristdemokraterna made the decision to create a common intranet where the every issue within party could be represented and where every individual could speak out and share knowledge. The party selected FirstClass as the technology behind their intranet and today, almost every local department and district has their individual intranet as part of the party's common intranet.

Despite the geographic dispersion of members across Sweden, Christian Democrats are united through a secure online environment, powered by FirstClass. Members collaborate and share ideas through virtual conferences, and materials such as bills, document templates, FAQs, etc., are disseminated and re-used throughout different parts of the country. A discussion conference has been set up to enable members from other parties, journalists, and other interested persons, to participate in online group debates.

The party also leverages FirstClass' web publishing capabilities, enabling local offices to easily provide content for the main party website without any knowledge of HTML.
