

FirstClass Contact Management

FirstClass provides an easy-to-use set of contact management tools that enable users to effectively manage their personal contacts as well as create shared contact databases for use within teams. In addition, FirstClass provides a powerful central user directory system that automatically makes contact information and a rich set of supplementary information available for all users on the FirstClass system.

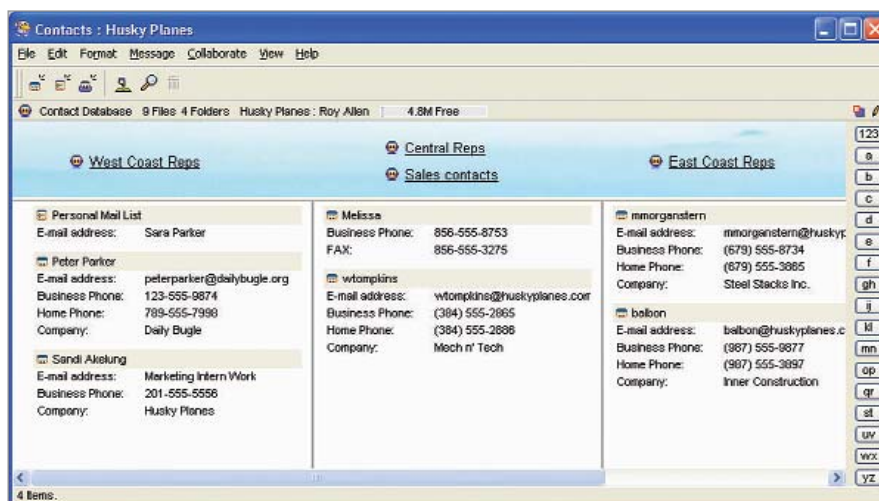

- Manage and maintain unlimited personal contacts
- Share contacts with peers or groups
- Access FirstClass users and their personal details with a single click
- Import and export contact information

PERSONAL CONTACTS

FirstClass users can manage a virtually unlimited number of personal contacts, and track a wide range of information for each contact record. FirstClass provides a number of built-in options for popular contact formats and provides an easy-to-use interface for managing access to contact information. Users can easily set up mail lists making sending messages to groups of users quick and convenient. Multiple contact databases can be created to further simplify complex contact management requirements.

SHARED CONTACTS

FirstClass enables users to share contact databases with other users while utilising customisable permissions controls to manage who can access or edit the contact details. This powerful feature enables organisations to create and effortlessly share common contact information such as customer lists, supplier lists, parental contact information, and so on.

FIRSTCLASS DIRECTORY

The FirstClass Directory is a centralised list of contact information for all users within the FirstClass system. This provides all users with a powerful tool for interacting with other users on the system including addressing mail, launching Instant Messaging sessions, and accessing calendars. The FirstClass permissions system can be used to quickly check what level of functionality and information access has been given to each group of users on the system.

FIRSTCLASS RÉSUMÉS

Résumés provide personal information that users create to inform others about themselves and their role in the organisation. Résumés can be opened from a number of locations, such as the "From" field of a message, enabling users to browse someone's background before responding to their message.
